Introduction

* All good research report involves on information compiled by and analysis done by others.

* If students rely in part on the work of others and you do not cite them, then you have failed in their responsibilities as academic writers.

* In writing the research report, researchers must acknowledge the material which you have borrowed from other sources. This applies to:
  - Direct quotations,
  - Paraphrases, and
  - Summaries you make of other people’s ideas, conclusions, words, and so on.

* This means that when you have decided to use a particular source, you have to make a record of all its (bibliographic) details that you will need to reference it. These details are usually found on the cover and in the first couple of pages of the source.

* It is very important that the referencing style selected must be used accurately and consistently applied throughout the research report.

Acknowledging Information Sources

- Acknowledging your sources (also known as referencing, citation, or documentation) is critical in that:
  - It shows that evidence provided is reliable
  - It proves to the scholarly community that what is presented in the paper constitutes new knowledge or represents a different viewpoint
  - It also gives readers the chance to crosscheck the findings to ensure that one has fully reviewed the related literature and correctly interpreted it.
APA Referencing Style

This format applies to all types of sources including:

- Books
- Journal articles
- Corporate authored material e.g. government reports
- Newspaper and magazine article
- Lecture notes, discussions, interviews
- Conference papers
- Theses
- Internet based sources e.g. Websites, e-journals, e-books, online newspapers
- Audio-visual formats such as films, Video, DVD, CD-ROM and diskette based sources

General Format of the Reference List

- Start the reference list on a new page, with the word “References” centered at the top of the page.
- Second and subsequent lines of each reference should be indented (hanging indent format)
- The reference list should be listed alphabetically by author and then by year
- Book titles and journal titles should be in italics (preferably) or underlined
- The date is the year of publication, not printing
- For a book, the edition is only mentioned if it is other than the first
- The place of publication is the town or city, not the country
- Journal titles should be given in full, not abbreviated
- Do not put a full stop after a website URL
- Be consistent in format, layout, type-face and punctuation

Citations in the Text

a) Inciting a work by one author
APA in-text citation style uses the author-date method; that is the surname of the author and the year of publication which are inserted in the text at appropriate point both for print and electronic sources: for example:

Customers value the social and economic benefits that they accrue from services provided. (Wasike, 2018).

b) Direct quotations
For direct quotations, include the page number as well, for example: (Wasike, 2018 p. 14)

In the case of quotations of more than forty words you must display the quotation in an indented block of text without quotation marks and quote the author, year and page number in the text, and include a full reference without page number in the reference list (p. 43).

c) Citing a specific part of a source
To cite a specific part of a source, indicate the page, chapter, figure or table at the appropriate point in the text.
Always give page numbers for quotations.
• (Stephen, 2017, chap. 3)
• (Simon, 2005, p. 234)

When the author(s) of a source are not part of the formal structure of the sentence, both the authors and years of publication appear in parenthesis. In this case join the names of authors with ampersand (&): FOR EXAMPLE

The new technological changes have also contributed to challenges for many users, as they lack information literacy skills that can enable them to access both print and electronic information resources. (Stephen 2018).
d) Inciting a work by Multiple Authors

If the work has three, four or five authors, cite them all the first time one refers to the work. In subsequent citations one includes only the last name of the first author followed by et al. and the year of publication.

Preparing a List of “References”
General guidelines

- The reference list documents sources and provides information necessary to identify and retrieve each source.
- All citations in the text must appear in the reference list and all references must be cited in the text except personal communication e.g. E-mail.
- In other words, only sources that have been used in the research and have been cited in the text should be listed.
- The list should be titled “References”.
- Arrange entries in alphabetical order by the surname of the first author, or by title if there is no author.
- Use only the initials(s) of the author’s given name, not full name, with space between the initials.
- All entries should be double-spaced.
- The first line of each entry should be at the left margin. Second and subsequent sentences should be indented three spaces (Hanging indents).
- Two or more works by same author should be listed chronologically, with the older work being listed first.
- Two or more works by the same author that are published in the same year are alphabetized and add a suffix “a”, “b”, “c” etc to the date (2022a, 2020b).

Compiling a Reference List

1) Formats for Books
The details required, in order, are:

- Name(s) of author(s), editor(s) as (Eds.), or the institution responsible.
- Date of publication in parenthesis. ( ).
- Title of publication and Subtitle if any (all titles must be italicized).
- Edition in parenthesis. (if other than first). E.g. (2nd ed.).
- Page numbers should be preceded by the abbreviation p. for page and pp. for pages contained within the edition parenthesis ( ).
- Place of publication (followed by a colon) :
